TAKING HEARING
Seriously

23/08/20

To whom it may concern,

Mr Anon Anon attended Another Hearing clinic today for a hearing assessment. Pure tone audiometry was performed and has confirmed a sensorineural hearing loss, defined as loss of at least 30dB in three consecutive frequencies over 72 hours or less. The loss is compared to a previous audiogram/the contralateral ear. Please see the attached audiogram.

NHS guidelines state that the patient should be assessed by ENT as soon as possible treated as a medical emergency. The suggested course of action is to commence oral steroids after discussion with the patient regarding the possible risks. The suggested dosage of oral prednisolone 1mg/kg/day (max 60mg/day) for 7 days tapered over the next week.

Many thanks,
